

Why the common myth that evolution/long-ages is “the only scientific option” for thinkers?

One reason is peer pressure—believing in evolution because so many other people believe it, a self-sustaining cycle of social reinforcement. Another is never being shown how the same evidence can be interpreted within a framework that takes the Bible seriously as revealed history—the Word of the living God who made all things. That same Bible also teaches that since Adam’s fall into sin, people are by nature biased against God. The Bible also teaches that the creation was originally “very good”, and that death, disease and suffering are ultimately due to Adam’s sin, in which we all continue. Belief in evolution (“everything made itself”) is the ultimate way to suppress the truth that all of us know deep down—that nothing as complex as this universe could ever come into being without intelligence and planning.

Deciding on whether creation or evolution makes more sense is one of the most crucial issues there could possibly be, because it affects your purpose and destiny. You owe it to yourself to really check out the evidence from a creation viewpoint, not just to hear it all “pre-digested” through the common “lenses” of our age.

WHO OPPOSE EVOLUTION AND “MILLIONS OF YEARS”

Anatomist

Dr David Menton was for several years Associate Professor of Anatomy at the Washington University School of Medicine in St Louis, Missouri.

Dr Menton is renowned for his talks on astounding design in the human body, for his research on bird feathers showing the extreme difficulties with the idea that they evolved from reptile scales, and for his refutation of the anatomical claims regarding many of the claimed “ape-man ancestors” of mankind.

Molecular biologist

Dr Ian Macreadie is Principal Research Scientist at the Biomolecular Research Institute of Australia’s Commonwealth Scientific and Industrial Research Organisation (CSIRO). He has won some of his nation’s leading awards for research in his field.

Dr Macreadie (who claims no official CSIRO endorsement for his views on origins) says: “All you see in the lab is either gene duplication, reshuffling of existing genes, or defective genes (with a loss of information) that might help a bug to survive—e.g., by not binding to an antibiotic as effectively. But you never see any new information arising within a cell.

“Evolution would argue for things improving, whereas I see everything falling to pieces. Genes being corrupted, mutations [mistakes as DNA is copied each generation] causing an increasing community burden of inherited diseases. All things were well designed initially.”

Geophysicist and continental drift expert

Dr John Baumgardner worked for the renowned Los Alamos National Laboratories in New Mexico, USA. He is widely acknowledged as having developed the world’s leading three-dimensional computer model of plate tectonics, the pre-eminent theory of the earth’s outer structure.

Dr Baumgardner’s modelling has shown fascinating indications that the present arrangement of continents was mainly caused by rapid breakup of a single land mass. This would have happened according to known laws of physics. Once started, the entire ocean floor would have been recycled in a matter of weeks to months, giving rise to worldwide flooding, as well as super-saturation of the atmosphere and prolonged rain—the global Flood of the Bible.

Nuclear physicist

Dr D. Russell Humphreys researched thermonuclear fusion energy for the US government, at the prestigious Sandia National Laboratories, New Mexico.

Dr Humphreys is well known for his successful written predictions based on his research on the earth’s magnetic field as evidence for a young earth.

These include the discovery of extremely rapid geomagnetic reversals, and the observed strengths of various planetary magnetic fields, orders of magnitude different from evolutionary expectations based on belief in billions-of-years ages for the planets. His book Starlight and Time is a major attempt to develop a creationist cosmology based on general relativity—one which presents a potential solution to the apparent problem of light from distant stars in a young universe.

Physics Professor

Dr Keith Wanser is Professor of Physics at California State University, Fullerton. His research interests lie in fibre-optic sensing techniques, experimental and theoretical condensed matter physics and basic theories of matter.

Dr Wanser says that people have had phrases like “evolution is fact” and “everybody knows that the world is old” drummed into them “like a mindless mantra”. The evidence, he says, “is far more in favour of a recent six-day creation and a global Flood than of an old earth and evolution. People look at the sort of science that put man on the moon and they put these “big bang” theories in the same basket. They’re unaware of all the speculation and uncertainty (even rule-bending) there is in physical theories of origins.”

Astronomer

Dr Danny Faulkner, Associate Professor at the University of South Carolina – Lancaster, teaches physics and astronomy. He has published about two dozen papers in various astronomy and astrophysics journals.

Dr Faulkner rejects the popular beliefs in concepts such as the “big bang” and “billions of years”, pointing out that there are no observations in astronomy that disprove the Genesis account, and there are some which support a recent creation of the earth and universe.

Zoologist

Dr Walter Veith was the holder of the Chair of Zoology at the University of the Western Cape (Republic of South Africa), and a former evolutionist and atheist.

Professor Veith became interested in the Bible after finding out about its many explicit prophecies which were fulfilled in amazing detail (unlike the vague prognostications of later seers and soothsayers). He says: “In my own field, I realised that natural selection (a fact, incidentally) does not increase the number of variants, it decreases them. I ask, “How can a mechanism that makes less and less end up making more and more?” To believe in chance mutations as the source of the new information required for evolution requires a lot of faith. It’s certainly not something I see in my work as a zoologist.”

The aforementioned are only a small sample of the many qualified scientists who believe in six-day, Genesis creation.
